THEME: Temples are part of the cultural legacy of the communities. They have remained one of the integral part of historical inheritance and living history of the cultures world over. These temples are not merely restricted to one particular faith rather they symbolized devotion of people through elaborate aesthetic constructions and ornamentations in almost all the religions. In Aurangabad Hinduism and its various sub-cults, Jainism, Buddhist, and Vaishnavism have elaborate and exquisite forms of temples, which are not only significant for a community's belief but also add to the heritage of the region. The objective of the colloquium is to discuss about the temples which evolved in the region after the 11th century and contributed in the rich architectural and cultural legacy of the region.
